La Salle Hall Opens!

For anyone that has driven by or strolled through Saint Paul's campus in recent months, they have surely noticed the construction happening in the corner of the campus along Jefferson and 11th Avenues. LaSalle Hall, which was built in the early 1960s, has been undergoing renovations. The building's three wings originally served as dormitories for students until the discontinuation of the boarding program in 2003. Following the end of the boarding program, the building housed a small art studio and a religion classroom, but remained, for the most part, vacant. After much consideration, the administrative team of the school decided that the students could best benefit from the space if the building was remodeled. The building is seen today by many in the Saint Paul's community as a fresh start as the school moves into its second century of educating young men.

The architectural firm handling the redesign of the building was Fautleroy Latham Weldon Barré, based in Covington. Architect Vincent Cangiemilla, a Saint Paul's graduate of 2003, oversaw much of the project. The construction aspect of the project was handled by Voelkel-McWilliams Construction. Following the completion of the structure itself, many students assisted in moving furniture, books, and bookstore items into their new homes. Students began using the building for classes on Monday, January 9, and many were excited to finally see the results of the work after nearly a year of construction. LaSalle Hall was officially opened on Wednesday, January 11, with an Open House and reception provided by the Mothers' Club. Father Matthew Clark, whose father, Dr. Robert Clark, graduated from Saint Paul's in 1952, blessed the building.

The center wing of the building was removed and a cross section was added along 11th Avenue, connecting the two wings and leaving space in the middle for an open-air courtyard. Over ten classrooms and labs and numerous offices were added in the building, which now features over 33,000 square feet of useable space. The guidance and counseling center, infirmary, and campus ministry have moved to the left wing of the bottom floor. Opposing them is the art department, which includes a large art studio and a kiln room for firing ceramics. The Shell Eco-Car Marathon Club has a large room for designing and constructing their fuel efficient vehicles. The Air Force Junior ROTC has also moved into new classrooms on the first floor. Lastly, the bookstore, run by the Mothers' Club, has also moved into the first floor of the building. The second floor of building is the new home of the Mathematics Department. Joining them are engineering classroom and labs and a lab for the robotics club to construct their projects.

With all of the new classrooms and additions in the building, it would be easy to forget its history and the thousands of students who called LaSalle Hall home for years. Despite having a completely new interior, many of the original structural elements, such as the foundation and brick walls, remain the same. Another interesting part of the building that remains is the original Terrazzo flooring on the first floor. It serves as a reminder of the thousands of students whose footsteps graced the hallways since 1960 and the amount of learning and growing that occurred in that building. The building is a welcome addition for the new century and will be able to provide hundreds of new opportunities for students to pursue along their educational journey.

Saint Paul's senior, Chris Arms and junior, Connor Campo are both working on an undefeated wrestling season this year. Connor has earned forty-five victories, and Chris has garnered fifty-two victories. Both wrestlers have come home with first place prizes in the Trey Culotta Tournament, The Mandeville Open, The George Trygg Tournament, The Louisiana Classic Invitational, and The Spartan Invitational. The Wolves traveled to Atlanta Georgia on January 19-21 to continue their season at the Prep School Slam. Connor and Chris are pictured in their first place sweatshirts and wearing their medals from the Louisiana Classic Tournament in Baton Rouge. After this tournament, Connor was named Saint Tammany Athlete of the Week by the Times Picayune. In addition, both Chris and Connor were interviewed by Times Picayune reporter Pat Mashburn. # Saint Paul's AFJROTC

Consider joining!

Saint Paul's AFJROTC is not a military unit. The mission in AFJROTC is to "Develop Citizens of Character Dedicated to Serving their Nation and Community". This mission is accomplished in the same manner everything at Saint Paul's is done: follow the principles of Saint John Baptist de La Salle, the Christian Brothers and their Lasallian partners. Involvement in AFJROTC does not come with any military obligation whatsoever. However, if your son is interested in pursuing a career in the military or is interested in ROTC in college we can certainly help.

Air Force Junior ROTC is a course designed to acquaint high school students with the aerospace age in which they live, while helping to develop them into informed young people. The course is comprised of 40% Aerospace Science, 40% Leadership Education, and 20% Wellness to include the President's Physical Fitness Test. Students are taught to work together as a team toward common goals and to develop leadership skills that will benefit them for the rest of their lives. These leadership skills transcend the JROTC context and will help them in any field they choose as a way of life. While most students take JROTC as an elective, freshman can take our course in place of Physical Education.

The principles of integrity, honesty, loyalty, teamwork and leadership are taught through the Air Force Core Values of: INTEGRITY FIRST, SERVICE BEFORE SELF, and EXCELLENCE IN ALL WE DO. Each student is treated as a young adult and is expected to behave as such. Students are taught everything from the ground up relating to aerospace, such as how aircraft were designed, built and perfected. The history of mankind's efforts against unbelievable odds to succeed in flight is taught, as well as spin-off discoveries in medicine and technology developed as a result of those efforts.

Weather, astronomy, and even a little geography as it relates to this course are covered. We recognize that knowledge is only as useful to a person as his ability to express it, and we attempt to influence the student's public speaking proficiency. Our course fosters teamwork through the use of drill and ceremony. We promote a feeling of belonging by providing a uniform that students wear to school. We promote respect for authority by awarding promotions within the unit as rewards for initiative and accomplishment.

We stress the importance of self-improvement and higher education and try to develop in students the desire to excel and want to be better than they ever thought possible. AFJROTC cadets are issued an Air Force uniform to wear during the school year. Students will wear the uniform to school one day a week on the designated uniform day. With certain exceptions, the AFJROTC uniform is the same uniform worn by active duty Air Force personnel. The reputation of the USAF is known worldwide and has no equal. The uniform is a visible symbol of that reputation.

If you have other questions please do not hesitate to contact Lt. Col. Jerry Brumfield or our Aerospace Science Instructor, MSgt AJ East. We can be reached at school by calling 892-3200, ext. 2111 or via email at ltcolbrumfield@stpauls.com and msgteast@stpauls.com.

Celebrity Waiters' Dinner

"Nursery Rhymes"

Friday, March 16, 2012

Consider reserving a table NOW for our 12th annual Celebrity Waiters' Dinner. Celebrity Waiters' Dinner is the only event that funds Saint Paul's Renaissance Program. This program sponsors several school programs such as the annual college tour, executive sessions between students and CEO's of local companies, "Life Skills Day" for seniors given by area business leaders, and an eighth grade etiquette training given at a local restaurant. It also sponsors continuing education for faculty, the student chapter of Habitat for Humanity, recognition luncheons for motivated, academically improved students and for students who perform service work and many other numerous organizations within Saint Paul's. This program also funds part of the administration budget for the Development Office.

The student center will come alive with over forty tables of ten. The evening begins with a social, networking hour with students serving appetizers. After the social and prayer, the dinner event begins promptly. The purchase of a table provides a full course meal prepared by Benedict's Plantation, an open bar, the ever popular bottomless wine glasses, a live auction, 50/50 raffle, restaurant raffle and door prizes.

Brandon De La Houssaye, Trent Domingue and Dane Stubbs were honored with selection to the All State Football Team. Trent has also been named the All-State kicker by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association, the District 5A first team place kicker, and the inaugural Ray Guy Prokicker.com High School All-Americans as an Honorable Mention Kicker.

At the Louisiana Association of Student Council's Annual State Convention, Saint Paul's was awarded the Gold Honor Council Award, naming it one of the top Student Councils in the state, for the 11th year in a row. The Student Council, moderated by Ann Forster, was given the award for making an effective impact on the school, through events including Homecoming Pep Rally, Christmas Luminarias, and the Centennial Celebrations. The Council was also presented an award for its contribution to this year's State Charity, the "Hope for Animals" organization. In addition, the group was awarded the Student Council Week Award for its Leadership Week activities, which included a special guest speaker for the student body; a breakfast for student leaders throughout the school; Challenge Night between Saint Paul's and Saint Scholastica; and the introduction and installation of new officers. To complete the awards, senior Shawn-Wesley Skinner won first place in the Convention's Impromptu Essay Contest. Pictured above front row L-R are: Zach Barnett, Thomas Duet, Ann Forster, Nathan Grotte, Sean Page, Robert Heap, Austin Frosch and Will Barnett. Back row L-R: Bobby Bayer, Shawn-Wesley Skinner, Matt Landry and Connor Mahony.
