Peter Klebba '73

Family: Married to GERALYN FREY KLEBBA with two daughters, Ashley Joiner SSA '03 (4 children), and Katie Allbritton SSA '06 (3 children).

Occupation: I worked in the insurance business for 40 years in sales and sales management with Progressive Insurance Company. I retired in 2020.

In what ways do you continue to be involved in Saint Paul's at this phase of your life? With 7 grandchildren, my life is very busy today. I'm at a soccer game, basketball game, dance practice etc. My commitment to Saint Paul's today is both financial and one of involvement. I donate a small amount of money each month on my credit card. It seems like the least I can do for all Saint Paul's has done for me. As the old saying goes, it is not the amount of the gift but the thought that counts. I would encourage all alumni to give of your time, talent, or treasure to the school.

Additionally, I participate regularly in the annual Joseph A. Champagne Jr./Gene Bennett Memorial Alumni Golf Tournament. I further serve as a class agent for 1973 which has had a big year of planning for our 50th celebration.

What would you describe as your greatest takeaway from Saint Paul's? I think the greatest takeaway was the base foundation provided by the entire high school experience. As the years pass, I have a greater appreciation for what Saint Paul's provided me. I have developed friendships for life. Look what is going on in the world today as compared to 50 years ago. The morality taught at Saint Paul's is so needed in today's society.

Why would you encourage young men to consider attending Saint Paul's?

I think Saint Paul's better prepares students for the next chapter in their lives. If your goal is college, look at the percentages of students who receive scholarships. Saint Paul's provides so many opportunities to young men. Today's world is so much more competitive than my time in high school. The value proposition today is even more valuable than my years at Saint Paul's.

What is your favorite memory of Saint Paul's? The friendships I made in high school have lasted a lifetime. The school always had my success as their number one goal, and I would bet that most if not all of my classmates would agree with my statement. I do have one particular special memory. Our bonfire was mysteriously burned the week of Homecoming. The senior class of 1973 was given the task to rebuild the entire bonfire in a very short period of time. It was amazing to see how well we performed as a team.

Do you have any other family members attending or who have attended Saint Paul's? My older brother, Paul Klebba, graduated in 1970. I currently have a grandson, Kaiden Klebba, who is a junior, and I have 2 other young grandsons who I hope will be attending Saint Paul's in the future.

Who is Your Favorite or most Impactful teacher? All of my teachers were special. Each one had a unique quality that impacted me. However, the one in particular who made the greatest impact was Brother Oscar. I wish I could tell you why he made such an impression on me after 50 years, but I can't.

What advice would you give to current students or young alumni? It may sound very repetitious, but get involved!!! Put your phones down and find an activity in which you have an interest. Today, Saint Paul's offers so many options. I believe there are 3 to 4 times as many extracurricular activities now compared to my time in the early 70s. Everyone should be able to find an activity. Discover what your passion is. If you don't have one yet, pick a club or an activity in which you might be interested.

Rockin' in Reims

Saint Paul's held the annual Five Core Dinner in the Briggs Assembly Center on Thursday, March 9. The Dinner is an event that focuses on the five core principles of a Lasallian education; respect for all persons, concern for the poor and social justice, quality education, inclusive community, and faith in the presence of God. This year's theme, Rockin' in Reims (the birthplace of St. John Baptist de La Salle), focused on the principle of Inclusive Community and in particular the Saint Paul's CORE (The Catholic Opportunity for Responsive Education) Pack program. This program provides an education experience for students with developmental disabilities to promote independence and self-determination within an inclusionary, Lasallian Catholic School environment.

Special guests Dr. RaeNell Houston, Superintendent of Schools for the Archdiocese of New Orleans Department of Catholic Schools and Faith Formation (DCSFF), along with Mrs. Katherine Shea, Associate Superintendent, joined faculty members Matt Pinero, Rachel Peak, Luke Barwick, and Barrett Baumgartner in presenting their reflection on each of the Five Core Principles.

Seated at each table with dinner guests were various members of Saint Paul's faculty. The faculty served as conversation guides throughout the dinner, and shared their own stories of each core principle alive on our campus. We extend our gratitude to all who helped put on this spectacular event, especially our presenters, table leaders, CORE Pack students and mentors that served as waiters, and our development team. Special thanks to our sponsors, Donahue Favret Contractors, Inc, Gray & Company, Inc, Mele Printing, Larry & Cathie Oggs, and Dr. Dominick Alongi. Additionally, thanks go to caterer Mr. Gary Bonanno with Bonanno's catering and the Louisiana Seafood Promotion & Marketing Board for donating the fresh seafood for the event.

Dr. ReaNel Houston, her husband Leon, and Saint Paul's Interim President, Mr. Trevor Watkins, socialize before the dinner begins.

CORE Pack student, Christopher Bonanno, delivers the prayer before the meal.

Honor Roll Breakfasts

The third quarter honor roll breakfasts for students were held at the end of March. As is custom for the third quarter, a few seniors were tasked with presenting a vocabulary lesson to their peers and parents in attendance. This year's trio, Matthew Brown, Samuel Gold, Riley Hildago, and Ethan Wilson did not disappoint. After the honor roll students were recognized and congratulated for their diligent work and excellent grades, Ethan kicked off the lesson with the word Ebullient (having or showing liveliness and enthusiasm); Riley elaborated on Alacrity (cheerful readiness, promptness, or willingness), Matthew expounded on Magnanimous (showing a lofty and courageous spirit), and Samuel closed with Schmuck (a stupid, foolish, or unlikeable person). They tied their words beautifully into real-world lessons for their peers and even provided some humor during their presentation.

Senior speakers L-R include Ethan Wilson, Matthew Brown, Riley Hildago, and Sam Gold.

Lacrosse Trip

Saint Paul's School lacrosse program made the best of the Mardi Gras break this year by heading to Memphis to play two of the top teams in Tennessee. The lacrosse team started the trip off by going to Saint Peter's Catholic church as a team for Ash Wednesday services. They then headed to Memphis to compete against Christian Brothers High School, a fellow all-boy Lasallian School.

The teams fought hard but Christian Brother's walked away the victor; however, in typical brotherly fashion, the Christian Brother's community invited the Saint Paul's lacrosse team to a dinner held on their campus. This gave the families, players, and coaches a chance to meet one another as well as build new relationships with another Lasallian community.

On a very cold and rainy Friday, Saint Paul's faced off against the number two ranked Memphis University School. Saint Paul's fell short of the mark again, but took away a lot of lessons.

The Saint Paul's lacrosse team finished their Memphis trip by attending the National Civil Rights Museum. Dr. Keith Wood from Christian Brothers High School was kind enough to come out and give the team a tour of the museum. Dr. Wood not only discussed the Civil Rights movement, but also brought in the Lasallian Five Core Principle of Concern for the Poor and Social Justice into his time with the team. Overall, the trip was a massive success and in the words of Bro. Ray, "the young men held themselves in an exemplary manner."
