What is our favorite memory at Saint Paul's? I really enjoyed every year when Bro. Ray would seek students out to tell them Happy Birthday. My father was in one of Brother Ray's first classes at De La Salle, and I was lucky to have his Honors English course at Saint Paul's.

What do you value most about your Saint Paul's education and experience? The tradition and care that the brothers, administration, and faculty have for the students. I still stay in contact with several of the faculty from my time at Saint Paul's.

Do you have any other family members currently attending or who have attended Saint Paul's? My grandfather graduated from Saint Paul's in 1951 and was inducted into the Saint Paul's Hall of Fame in my 8th grade year.

Who was your favorite or most impactful teacher? Brother Ray as a teacher and administrator was so impactful as a constant presence at Saint Paul's. I knew when I was entering his class that I was getting to experience a class that decades of students had been through before me.

What advice would you give to current students or young alumni? Recognize that at 13-18 years old, you won't know where your life is headed and that is normal. Be a well-rounded student and learn what it means to be a man. Covington is a great place, but a small place. Be committed to broadening your horizons and seeing life from different perspectives.

Why would you encourage young men to consider attending Saint Paul's? The experience of growing into a man with brothers, faculty, and classmates that are still a part of my life is unbelievable. I don't know many men my age who are regularly in touch with their high school teachers.

What would you describe as your greatest takeaway from Saint Paul's? Be a lifelong student and a lifelong teacher. Yearn for knowledge after high school, college, or beyond and be committed to passing that knowledge on to help others.

Is there anything you would do differently with your Saint Paul's experience if give the opportunity to go back in time? It's hard to understand how interesting each subject can truly be that we study in school until we become adults and see their unique application in daily life. I would love opportunities to go back and learn more about those same subjects but with the perspective that comes as we get older.

Annual Fund Drive

Hopefully, you've received the 2022-23 Saint Paul's Annual Advancement Review in the mail. If not, please contact the Development Office at development@stpauls.com to give us your updated contact information.

The 2024 Annual Fund Drive runs from August 1, 2023 through July 31, 2024. A gift to the Saint Paul's Annual Fund, regardless of the amount, shows a commitment to the school and is sincerely appreciated. Your support represents your satisfaction with Saint Paul's and its mission.

Saint Paul's School needs financial assistance beyond tuition to continue the school's proven tradition of educational excellence and to sustain the Lasallian mission.

The proceeds go into the operating budget and are immediately used in the areas of greatest need (i.e., technology, pre-engineering program, bio-medical sciences program, classroom improvements, building renovations and maintenance, financial assistance, and restricted gifts). Saint Scholastica and Saint Paul's Celebrate All Saints Day

The Saint Paul's School and Saint Scholastica Academy communities gathered together to celebrate a liturgy for the Solemnity of All Saints. The Mass took place in Saint Paul's Briggs Assembly Center and was con-celebrated by the Rev. Clayton "Beau" Charbonnet, Saint Paul's alum and pastor of Saint Angela Merici parish, and the Rev. Jeremy Lambert, L.C., who assists with pastoral needs at Saint Scholastica Academy and serves as a part-time Parochial Vicar at Saint Catherine of Siena parish.

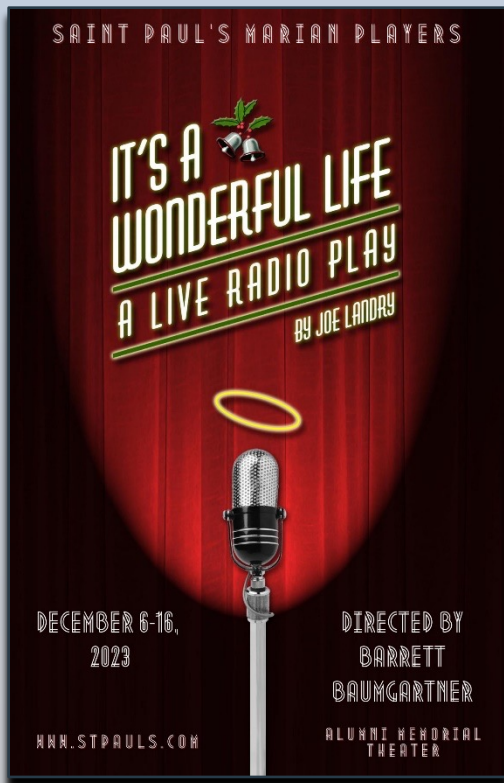

The planning of the liturgy was a collaborative effort spearheaded by the campus ministers of each school, Jeff Ramon '08 of Saint Paul's and Colin MacIver of Saint Scholastica. The brother-sister relationship between the two schools is typically highlighted through pep rallies, homecoming events, and friendly competitions. Joining the two schools for a celebration of the Eucharist is in its second year of what we see as an annual gathering. Ramon noted, "The shared liturgy affords each school community the opportunity to learn about the liturgical life of one another." Student representatives from each school served as lectors, Extraordinary Ministers of Holy Communion, and members of the choir during the liturgy dedicated to the saints of the Church. Fr. Beau inspired the students during his homily to call upon the heavenly saints for aid and encouraged them to be saints in this earthly life.

Eucharistic Ministers from both schools assist with distributing Holy Communion.

Habitat for Humanity

The Habitat for Humanity Club was once again busy on the second Saturday in November. The crew of ten had a busy workday assisting two Habitat houses. One group of the industrious Habitat Wolves worked alongside the Women's Build group and two future homeowners in covering the roof with plywood while the others built and installed nineteen lattice panels under the house.

During the first week of November, Saint Paul's School celebrated Día de los Muertos with the annual prayer service for all Spanish classes in the chapel. This custom began in Mexico thousands of years ago. It is a beautiful way to celebrate the lives of all our departed loved ones. There are four elements used during this celebration and it is important that all of these elements are represented on the altar.

Fire is present through the candles on the altar which are to light the way for the souls coming home. Water is present on the altar to quench the thirst of the souls and to reinvigorate their energies for their journey into the beyond. Earth is represented through the food on the altar that feeds them as the souls celebrate with their loved ones. We remember that we all come from the earth, we live as a part of the earth and as we die, we will return to the earth. Lastly, wind is represented by the "papel picado" which reminds us of the fragility and ever changing nature of our life on earth.

by Mrs. Liz Brett Spanish Department Chair

The altar contains brightly colored flowers, candles, and decorations and pictures of our deceased Brothers. Pictured on the altar are Brothers Ralph Baltz, Duane Gregory, Ray Bulliard, Alfred Baltz, and Louis Welker.

Honor Roll Breakfasts

Quality Education

Saint Paul's School student body recently finished up their first full quarter of the school year. After every quarter Saint Paul's Development Office and Administration host a breakfast to recognize the great achievement of the honor roll students. Every student who earns B's and A's on their report card is bestowed the Blue Honor Roll, while every student who earns straight A's on their report card is bestowed the Gold Honor Roll. As one of Brother Ray's favorite events, the Administration has decided to name the breakfasts in his honor. In keep with his tradition, Principal Joe Dickens continues to make the Honor Roll Breakfast to be a learning experience, nourishment for both the body and brain!

Mr. Dickens chooses four vocabulary words to teach at the breakfast. The words chosen are always a positive noun, a positive adjective, a negative noun, and a negative adjective. The vocabulary words always give the honor roll breakfasts an element of uniqueness from one another. The negative adjective of this honor roll breakfast is nugatory. To be nugatory is to be worth nothing or of little value. The positive adjective of this honor roll breakfast is splendiferous. To be splendiferous is to be magnificent, fine, and splendid. Every Saint Paul's student should strive to be splendiferous through their daily life! The negative noun of this honor roll breakfast is nudnik. To be a nudnik is to be an annoying or boring person, especially someone who is always criticizing or complaining. The positive noun of the honor roll breakfast is stalwart. Stalwart is a firm, brave, and steadfast person. Saint Paul's students should refrain from being a nugatory nudnick and instead live life as a splendiferous stalwart!

Thanksgiving Food Drive

Over many past Thanksgivings, Saint Paul's has been collecting thousands of pounds worth of food for the hungry of Covington, St. Tammany and Washington Parishes. Concern for the poor and social justice is one of the Five Core Principles that Saint Paul's School follows, and every year prior to Thanksgiving, the Wolves do everything in their power to ensure as many people as possible are able enjoy the holiday season.

At 8:00 AM on Wednesday, Nov. 15th, over twenty juniors and seniors loaded up their trucks with over 8,000 pounds of food to haul to the Northshore Food Bank in Covington.

Thousands of pounds of food items were collected for the food drive.

Wolves for Life

The Saint Paul's Wolves for Life sponsored a diaper drive last month collecting almost 3,000 diapers thanks to the generosity of the school community. Club members Shawn Cooney and Slate Dominique delivered the diapers to the Northlake Crisis Pregnancy Center along with handwritten notes of encouragement for the young mothers. The Saint Paul's seniors and club moderator Catherine Tonry were given a tour of the facility, learning about the many programs offered to expectant mothers: medical services, counseling, educational offerings, and long-term maternal assistance. Saint Paul's seniors Slate Dominique and Shawn Cooney, members of Wolves for Life, delivered nearly 3,000 diapers to the Northlake Crisis Pregnancy Center along with handwritten notes of encouragement for the young mothers.

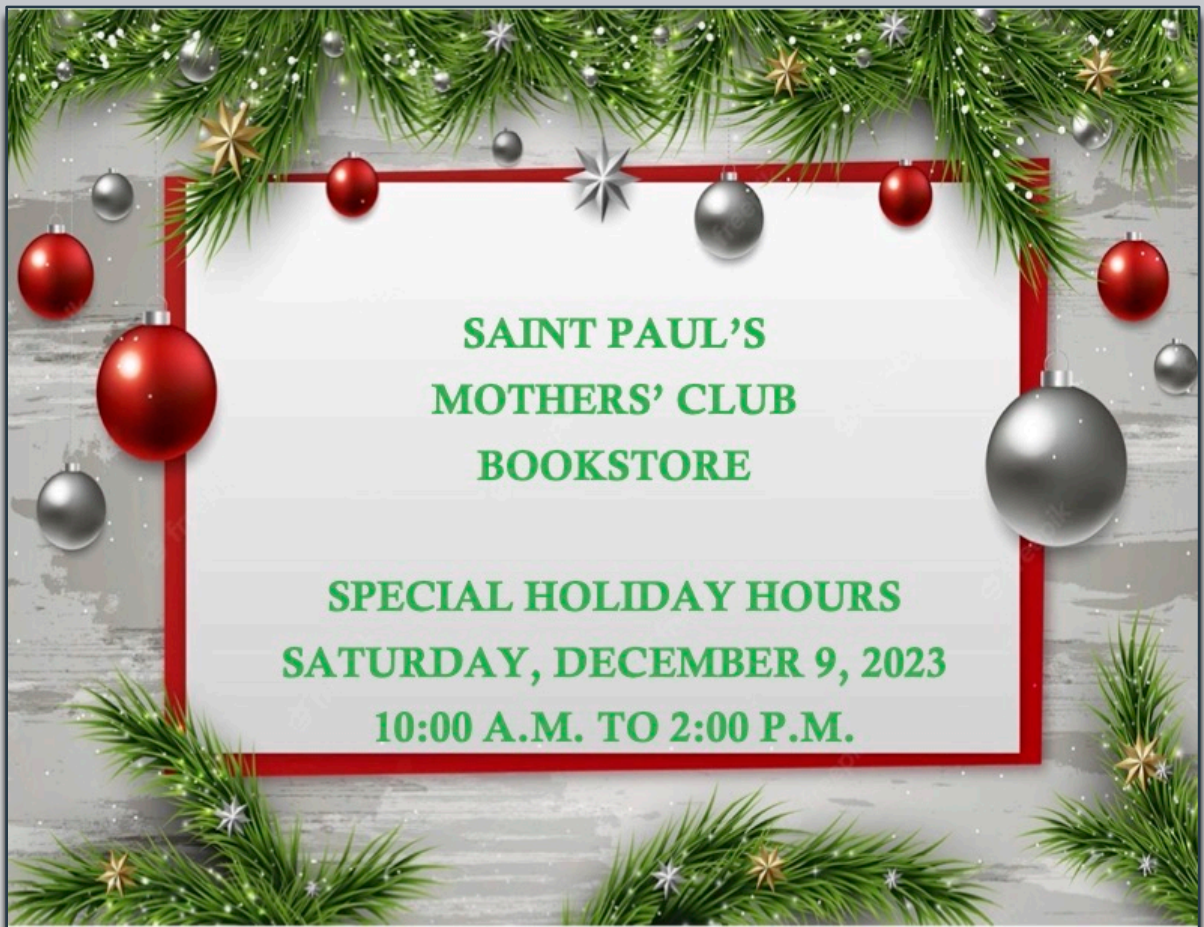

Stella Yelling Contest

Saint Paul's School English teacher, Victor Morlas, annually hosts the "Stella Yelling Contest" for his AP Literature students upon completion of the Tennessee Williams play, A Streetcar Named Desire. The fan favorite contest is held during lunch and always offers exciting performances, and this year was no exception. Pictured at left is Luke Ramirez giving his impersonation of Marlon Brando.
